A Focus on Wellness

KIND recognizes that our ability to help our clients starts with helping our team members. KIND has prioritized wellness for employees in the following ways:

Mindfulness & Wellness Trainings
KIND partners with industry professionals in the mindfulness and wellness space to present ongoing workshops to our leaders and staff. These discussions ensure that despite our other personal and professional obligations, we take time to consider our wellness on a regular basis.

Time Away
KIND offers vacation and sick leave, in addition to bereavement leave and wellness days as a part of its time off allowances. Staff are encouraged to use sick time for all wellness needs on days outside of designated wellness days, including after experiencing trauma; to attend counseling; for mental health days; or for other wellness events. KIND offers Wellness Fridays throughout the year as time for staff to be well. This is just one of the many ways we show KINDness and compassion toward our staff.

Office Wellness Activities
Our commitment to wellness starts with our staff. In addition to our grassroots Wellness Committee, our offices regularly put the well-being of their teams as top priority.

Wellness Platforms
Mindfulness is an important part of being less stressed, more resilient, and happier. All employees at KIND receive a complimentary membership to Headspace, where they can participate in meditation activities and other resources related to mindfulness. MyLifeWell platform is offered to KIND staff as an all-in-one approach to staff wellness.

Employee Assistance & Resilience Program (EARP)
Beyond your average employee assistance program, our EARP serves as a resource for employees & household members to seek confidential counseling for work and non-work-related concerns. EARP Performance Consultants provide resources and support for KIND managers to learn how to broach difficult topics and create a safe space for employees to voice concerns.

KIND’s Atlanta team came together for a wellness activity inspired by the documentary “Can You Dig This.” The team watched together and got to plant their own indoor herb gardens.
